

Metirius

Brown Ringlet

Hypocysta metirius

The Brown Ringlet is one of a genus of six, mostly brown, butterflies with prominent "eyes" on their hind wings.

They fly quite slowly, low among the long grass, on which their caterpillars feed. In the morning they perch on grass stalks or low branches, wings open to the sun, generally in open forest or on hill tops.