

Nigrina

30 mm

A female Black Jezabel

Black Jezabel

Delias nigrina

More common in the winter than most butterflies, Black Jezabels fly in eucalypt forest where mistletoe is growing, generally well above head height, but sometimes coming lower to feed on nectar from flowering shrubs.

Underside of a Black Jezabel